

I bought an XM radio because the radio stations in Atlanta don't give the listening public what it wants. They all follow the same herd mentality - either the same songs over and over again or nothing but talk. There is no reason commercial radio stations should have a monopoly on weather and traffic information. They only have themselves to blame for their own demise because they have ignored the listening public.